session. President Ford, of Select Council; President Pro Tem Magee, of Common Council, and Mayor McCallin sat at the President's desk. The Mayor was there by request, Mr. Carnahan holding that the Mayor, the Presidents of Councils and the members of Councils constituted the city authorities under circumstances such as made the meeting necessary.

ME. KEATING'S PROUD PRIVILEGE. When the Councils came to order President Ford called on Mr. Keating, Chairman of the Park Committee, for a report. Mr.

Keating said: Kenting said:

It is with feelings of great gratitude and pride that I have the honor to announce that Mr. R. B. Carnahan, the member from the Twentieth ward, has in his possession a paper from Mary E. Schenley, a native of the United States, now residing in London, England, giving to the city of Pittsburg a public park for the people. I cannot at this moment recall any similar gift to any city in the United States. All of the public parks in the country have become the property of the people by purchase. This is the only instance of such great generosity on record. It is a great gift. It gives to the people a park and gives it without any reservation or condition, save only that it shall be a park and be held for the use of the people. Mr. Carnahan will present his papers.

Mr. Carnahan said: For the first time since I have been a member of Councils I appear on the floor of the char ber in a dual character. I am here as a men ber of Council, and as the representative of the lady who makes the gift to the city. I am like Desdemona when she said to her father: "I see here a divided duty."

Appearing in this dual character, that there may be no mistake in the future, I have done something I have never found necessary before and reduced what I have to say to writing.

THE FORMAL STATEMENT. Continuing, Mr. Carnahan read from the manuscript the following statement:

manuscript the following statement:

Mrs. Schenley has transmitted to me from London her deed conveying to the city of Pittsburg 300 acres of the tract of land in the Twenty-second ward, called Mr. Airy, for the pulpose of a public park, with instructions to me, as her representative in this behalf to the constituted authorities of this city.

It is hardly necessary to say that a more agreeable duty could not have been devolved on me, as a citizen of Pittsburg, as a member of one of the Councils of the city, or as a person standing in a professional relation of trust and confidence to the good lady whom I have the honor to represent on this occasion. The deed itself recites the motives and purposes of the donor so fully as to preclude any need of further explanation, and no word of mine can magnify the value of the donation. It will be more fitting for others present to speak of Mrs. magnify the value of the donation. It will be more fitting for others present to speak of Mrs. Schenley herself and tell you, if you wish to hear who her ancestors were and what claims they had to the gratitude of their countrymen in their day, and have on our gratitude now. For me it remains only to perform the duty with which I have been charged by delivering to you, the properly constituted authorities of the city, for and in the name of Mrs. Schenley, the instrument of writing which I now present as her act and deed for the purposes therein contained.

When he concluded he handed to Assistant Clerk Martin the deed for the 300 acres of the Mt. Airy tract that Mrs. Schenley gave to the city. It was acknowledged before Consul General John C. New at London October 30, 1889.

RESOLUTION OF ACCEPTANCE. Mr. Keating offered the following:

Resolved, By the Select and Common Councils of the city of Pittsburg, that for and on behalf of the city of Pittsburg, we do hereby accept the deed of Mrs. Mary E. Schenley for 300 acres of ground in the Twenty-second ward, of this city, said deed being dated October 30 this city, said deed being dated October 30, 1889, and agree that said property shall be used for a public park, and be designed and known forever as Schepley Park.

Before the vote could be taken Mr. Carnahan said: "The phrase Schepley Park in the deed is there on my own responsibility. I put it there without Mrs. Schepley's knowledge, or without consultation with her. She asked me if it were necessary and I told her it was proper. I am alone responsible for it.

Mr. Mannes of Schept Council, allinged to

Mr. Munroe, of Select Council, alluded to Mr. Carnegie's offer of a public library, and claimed that there were pleuty great-souled men and women in Pittaburg who would be only too happy to advance her interests if the way could be made plain. He hoped that the example of Mrs. Schenley would be universally followed. Continuing Mr. Munroe said:

There are large sections of this city that this There are large sections of this city that this park will be inaccessible to, and I hope and trust that other parts of the city will be called on to receive the like—if not so liberal, sufficiently liberal for the uses of the people. We have been a struggling city. A park has been wanted for years, Yet had we been left to our own efforts, to put our hands in our pockets, it would have been many years before Pittsburg would have had a park.

HER VALIANT ANCESTORS.

This lady's ancestors have been distinguished men, known favorably here and all over the United States. The valor of the males as soldlers and their ability as executive men have been long noted. Who does not know that James O'Hara built the first glass works? He was the friend of Washington. On her mother's side the lady's ancestors were the famous Croghans, soldiers all. Then Mr. Keating neres was then passed. Then Mr. Keating presented a resolution accepting the option the rest of the tract at $125,000. Before the resolution was taken up Mr. Carnahan said that there was a little over 300 acres in the ground given, and a little over 400 in the entire tract. Exactly how much was not known, as the tract had not been surveved for over 80 years. Mrs. Schenley does not want to sell the 100 acres left, and will not sell it to any one except the city of She was not to be understood as asking Pittsburg to buy. It was repre-sented to her that Pittsburg wanted to buy, and she offered to sell the remaining 100 acres for $125,000, payable $62,500 on May 1, 1890, and $62,500 on May 1, 1891. This option she offers to March 1. She has no desire to sell, and only makes the offer because she was assured the city wanted to buy. The resolution was then read: buy. The resolution was then read:

Resolved. By the Select and Common Councils of the city of Pittsburg, that for and on behalf of the city of Pittsburg, we do hereby accept the option of Mrs. Mary E. Resolved, That a committee of five, two from Select and three from Common Councils, together with the Chief of the Department of Public Works, the Mayor and Controller of the city, be appointed for the purpose of carrying the above intentions into effect.

Mr. Robertson's resolutions caused a small sensation. There was a faint hiss when their drift became perceptible. The men who worked so hard to secure the parks looked disgusted. Mr. Duncan raised the point of order that the substitute was out of ing want of the city, and one that cannot fail order, as it was not pertinent to the ques-tion at issue, and President Ford sustained

The second resolution offered by Mr. Keating has nothing to do with the donation. That is already provided for. This second resolution is additional, and if my substitute is out and it my substitute is out of order, so is this resolution. The substitute only provides another way of accepting this option. I believe the people ought to feel prood, and no words are too commendable for the men who brought about this gift; but we are going beyond a gift; we are going into a surphise that will require traveline and that is are going beyond a gift; we are going into a purchase that will require taxation, and that is why I object. The city for years has been under an obligation to the Southside. One inducement for consolidation was a promise of free bridges. That obligation was never kept. The city was unable to raise the money. That reason seems to be wiped out here to-day. You talk of $125,000 to buy land; how much the control of the control more to fix it up? Millions may be spent on it. I have no objections to that, but if the city has money to go into that sort of speculation, she has money to keep the obligation made with the Southside.

The last time this was tried we were defeated by the Southside members fighting over which bridge to start with. I hope we won't be led in that trap again.

Two or three of the Southside Councilmen applauded Mr. Robertson when he sat down. Mr. Keating took the floor. He said:

The gentleman who has just spoken served in the Legislature: he has either been admitted to or is studying for admission to the bar, and I hope him success. The question before us is an option. The gentleman knows that we can't change an option. He wanted to get that speech off. He has been studying it for a week. No one can say that I helped to legislate against the Southside. I fought for free bridges when there was money available to get them, and the Southside members defeated the matter. I favored a proper contract with the Monongahela Water Company, I am not a candidate for re-election; I am not talking demagoguery. I am for free bridges. I am for parks in the West End and on the Southside. This is not demagogism. I am sorry that at such a time, when Pittsburg gets her first great gift, that such a movement should be sprung. The gentleman has had his speech; he spoke on a point of order without ever referring to it, and now let us pass the resolution.

President Ford ruled the substitute out of order, and Mr. Robertson at once moved to postpone action on the resolution until the next regular meeting. Dr. Evans warned him that if his purpose was to force free bridges his course might array against him men who would otherwise be for the project. Mr. Warmcastle said the movement was like looking a gift horse in the mouth. He had been a friend of the Southside, as the records would show. # A NOBLE INSTRUMENT

Description of the Handsome Masonic Pipe Organ.

IT IS THE HIGHEST IN THE WORLD.

To be Heard Next Tuesday Evening in Completed Form.

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE HALL

The highest pipe organ in the worldthat is, highest above the surface of the ground-is receiving its finishing touches in Freemason's, Hall at the top of the magnificent Masonic building on Fifth avenue. It will be first used on next Tuesday, evening at a meeting of the Scottish Rite, after which the consistories, commanderies, blue lodges and minor lodges will have the pleasure of viewing and hearing the new instrument.

Just 116 feet above the madding crowd that surges along Fifth avenue sits this king of instruments. It was built by Steere Turner, of Springfield, Mass., and is one of the most complete instruments in the city and is said to have cost $5,300.

In completing the details of the lovely little hall which crowns the building it was decided that a complete pipe organ would properly occupy the gallery at the Fifth avenue end of the hall under which the entrances to the hall are situated. The instrument was to be complete, but neither immense nor assertive. These qualities have been admirably met.

The following complete specification and description of the organ was transcribed from the front by a DISPATCH representa-tive last evening while the process of tuning was in progress:

Piston pneumatic couplers, swell to great solo to great and swell to solo. There are five combination pedals, giving varying extent of the organ from pianissimo to full organ. The grand organ combination pedal throws full compliment of great and pedal organs, and its reversing pedal leaves the pedal bowedon and the great dappeil flute, viol di gamba and eight ft. diapason. There are two balanced swell pedals. One swell box is for the swell organ alone, and the other incloses the solo organ complete and the mixtures, trumpet twelfth and fifteenth, thus placing almost the entire organ under control of the organist. By a neat arrangement both swell pedals can be controlled by one foot. The piano combination pedals, that of the great and that of the swell organs, are double-acting. It would be difficult to imagine a more handy instrument than this one. Summing up, there are 1,415 pipes and 34 stops. The bellows is blown by an electric motor of large size, controlled by a button above the keyboard. The general dimensions are 18 feet 8 inches #### in width, 15 feet in height and 20 feet in depth.

IN ARTISTIC HARMONY. The case of the organ is remarkably elaborate and beautiful. It is of red gum wood highly finished and paneled to the height of six feet, the panelling being surmounted by an apex, upon which rest the feet of the front pipes, most of which are drawn from the two dispason stops of the great organ.

The pipes are richly illuminated in chaste colors and arabesque designs, red and gold being the prevailing tints. Halfway of their length a broad band of richly-carved gum wood encircles them, the subdivision of the front being into three panels, the middle one of which is the widest. The sides of the case -back it has none-are of the same wood, in plain panels. The keyboards and the pedal clavier are highly finished, and their appearance alone would invite the musically inclined, even were there not such rich depths of harmony waiting to spring into sound at the touch of the fingers.

A GEM OF A HALL. The hall is a beautiful specimen of interior Moorish design. The circular conpillars and the perfect contour of the wails, all in dazzlingly white finish, are most pleasing to the eye. The floor has been carpeted with a magnificent piece of moquette tapestry and all accessories are of the richest design and fluish. A gallery, the rear of which is occupied by the organ, runs around three sides of the hall. Facing the organ at the rear of the hall is a cute miniature stage elaborately fitted up with all the newest scenery and accessories. The amusement hall of Freemason's building can hardly be duplicated in any city in America. It is certainly most creditable to

He Personally Affirms His Candidacy for the Mayoraky-A Dignified and Eurocat Canvass to be Made.

Hon. S. D. Warmeastle returned from a business trip yesterday morning, and went direct to his office, where a bushel or so of letters awaited his attention. At the meeting of Councils yesterday Mr. Warmonstle seemed to be a central figure. His hand was shaken often, and dozens of personal friends, including Councilmen, whispered mysteriously to him, while newspaper men crowded around and asked him if the exclusive publication by THE DISPATCH that he was a candidate for the Mayoralty was

I am a candidate for the Mayoralty in this sense: that I am not going around building promises of support. I shall make a dignified and earnest run for the nomination, and I expect to make the race as the candidate of no faction, but as the claimant for the support of the united Republicans. I have received, since the announcement, at least a bushel of the warmest kind of letters from the leading business men of the Republican party, and I am considerably astonished by the spontaneous offers of support, aid and comfort made, I have no names to call and no dissensions to create; but, while I believe thoroughly in the office seeking the man, I am perfectly frank in saying that I would like to be Mayor of Pittsburg.

During the joint session of Councils Mr. H. I. Gourley sat beside Mr. Warmcastle, and the rival candidates talked to each other with the utmost good fellowship.
"Yes, I am still a candidate for the Mayor-

"Yes, I am still a candidate for the Mayoralty," said Mr. Gourley. "I am not saying anything more than that"—this last with one of his charm-a-rural-delegate smiles.

"It is being rumored that you will be withdrawn, Mr. Gourley?"

Mr. Gourley was nettled. "It is absolutely untrue. I will not be withdrawn, nor will I withdraw. I have my delegates in nearly every district in the city, and I may say also that Mr. Warmcastle tells me that he is not a candidate."

Why, he is running as one of my delegates out in the Nineteenth ward. Mr. Gourley's positiveness upon this subject is very marked. A vast number of candidates have been trotted out for public inspection since the ball was set rolling. Four names, however, are most seriously discussed by those whose influence figures in the make-up of nominating conventions. Those names are Gourley, Warmeastle, McCandless and Bailey. A well-known Democratic poli-tician said yesterday: "Whichever way you turn it looks like Judge Bailey."

DYING OF BLOOD POISONING. Another Phase of the Story About the Boy and His Hatchet.

George Filling, the 6-year-old son of Henry Filling, residing at No. 529 Fifth avenue, is lying in a critical condition from the effects of the explosion of a dynamite cartridge.

On November 3 the boy found the cartridge where it had been left by the workmen who were doing some blasting on Dinwiddie street, near Fifth avenue. He took it home and placing it on the hearthstone tried to open it with a hatchet. The explo-sion nearly tore off one of his legs and shattered articles in the room, breaking the glass in the window. He was attended by Dr. Oyer, but the pieces of copper from the cartridge, which had penetrated his leg, caused blood poisoning to set in and his condition is very serious. It is feared that one of his legs may yet have to be amputated. Several escapes have been made by other children in the neighborhood from similar accidents, a number of them having found dynamite cartridges, but having them taken from them by their parents before any dam-age was done.

LAUGHLINS & CO.'S ARTIFICIAL GAS

Messrs. Werneberg have a contract with the steel firm, to lay a pipe line connect-ing the three new wells with the nearest well at Murrysville. The line will be 12 inches in diameter, and about six miles in length. The contractors are to proceed immediately with the work, and they expect to finish it before Christmas. The contract is estimated at $30,000, but before the work is completed the extras may foot up an ad-

THE 31-INCH MAIN NEARLY LAID. The Philadelphia Company, which had ex-pected to finish their 36 diameter main line between Murrysville and Pittsburg this week, have been held back on account of the weather, and they cannot make connection until the latter part of next week. The gas is at normal pressure, and there is an abundance of it, so that Pittsburg will probably not be inconvenienced during the winter by a shortage. Oliver Bros, the proprietors of the Monon-gahela Natural Gas Company, are letting a contract for laying a pipe line between Whitehall and Knoxville. They hope to be able to furnish the residents in that section with gas in a very short time.

GAS FOR THE BOROUGHS. They will connect all the residences with their main line. It is also their intention later to bring it to Allentown, but that is not in the present contract. The main line will be 6 inches in diameter, and the work will not cost more than $15,000.

AFTER A DIVIDE.

One of the Johnstown Scrap Buyers Complains of His Partner's Actions. John Degnan, of Johnstown, one of the young men arrested last Tuesday on the charge of falsely removing old iron, lead pipe, etc., from Johnstown, called at the Central police station last night and asked for a special officer to accompany him.

Degnan and William Gill, of McKees-port, made a contract with the borough of Johnstown to purchase a large amount of scrap material which remained from the flood debris. The stuff was to be weighed on the borough scales and paid for by the ton. It is charged that they hauled it to the cars without weighing it, shipped it to Pittsburg and sold it to a man named Mc-Kinley for a good round sum, but failed to settle with the Johnstown government.

Degnan was referred last night to Detective Coulson, to whom he said that he desired to have his partner, Gill, compelled to divide the proceeds of the sale of the scrap. He said that Gill had received $1,200 from McKinley, that Gill refused to divide, and was at that time spending his money in a house on the hill. Degnan wished the detective to scare Gill into making an equal division of the spoils. Detective Coulson was not in that sort of business, and refused to accompany the young man.

Degnan said that he intended to bring suit against the borough of Johnstown, and he was satisfied that Gill was preparing to compromise with the borough officials. He wanted that movement stopped, but the police refused to aid him in his desires.

Bought at Auction.

The largest auction sale that has taken place in years was held last Tuesday, November 12, in New York City. It was a sale of the entire clothing stock of the well-known firm of Messrs. Naumberg, Kraus, Lauer & Co., and included the finest of overcoats and suits, for which this firm is specially noted. Always looking for these opportunities, our buyer was on hand. He cought, and he bought heavily at about onethird what the goods cost to manufacture. We paid spot cash, and the first fast express landed them at our store, corner Grant and Diamond streets. We have arranged them on twelve counters, and marked them at a little above cost. To-day you can have a pick from this purchase, and at $8 buy a handsome chinchilla overcoat, worth $15 and $16; $12 gives you a selection of imported English kersey overcoats, regular price $22 to $24; also cape coats and top coats, storm coats at $10 and $12. BREWERY FIRM CHANGES.

Frauenheim & Vilanck, Brewers, to Become a Corporation-Goasip Upon Syndicate Overtures.

The firm of Frauenheim & Vilsack. brewers, is to be changed into a corporation, and the sons of the two senior members will be taken in as corporators. The boys are Ed J. Frauenbeim, A. A. Frauenbeim, Aloysias Frauenheim, E. J. Vilsack and J. J. Vilsack. McClung and Fagan are the solicitors who have already applied for the charter. The boys have been doing the brunt of the work for some time, and their services are to be rewarded in this manner. Their share of the stock will be $100,000 di-

Messrs. Park Bros., of the the Black Diamond Steel Works, have come into possession of three new gas wells, ten miles north of Murrysville willage. The wells are sunk 800 feet, and they give 500 pound pressure to the square inch. They are to be connected with the other wells belonging to Park Bros. & Co. in that district.

Messrs. Werneberg have a contract with the steel firm, to lay a pipe line connecting the three new wells with the nearest well at the stream of the stock will be $100,000 divided proportionately between them.

After the corporation scheme has been consummated it is the intention of Francheim & Vilsack to enlarge their premises so that they can brew a greater quantity of beer. The old buildings will be torn down and a new structure creeted 50x30 feet. This will increase their their capacity about 30,000 barrels a year. Underneath the new building they will fix up an ice cellur. The storage room will hold 10,000 barrels of beer.

Mr. Ed Frauenheim said during an interview: "The English syndicate offered for the

"The English syndicate offered for the purchase of the Pittsburg breweries $7,000,000. This sum did not reach anything near what the brewers asked for their places. "The syndicate was very persistent. I believe they wanted to purchase the breweries when it was an assured fact that the deal was off, and beyond any chance of going through, they hung about Pittsburg, thinking that there was a bare possibility that their offer would be accepted."

Mr. Ed Frauenheim stated that the gentlement representing the brewing interest tlemen representing the brewing interes who had gone to St. Louis had no intention of studying any pool scheme. He scouted the idea of a combination of brewers creating and controling prices. He said it was un-workable and impracticable. The idea had often been mooted in the meetings of the Brewers' Association, but there was never a feasible scheme proposed, and there never will be one which will be acceptable to all parties.
